

Shareholders Approve Reincorporation and Bradbury Capital Merger

03-04-2026

Technology & Telecommunication Acquisition ((TETEF)) just unveiled an announcement.

On March 30, 2026, Technology & Telecommunication Acquisition Corporation shareholders overwhelmingly approved a slate of proposals to reincorporate the SPAC in the Cayman Islands via a merger into TETE Technologies Inc., adopt an amended business combination agreement with Bradbury Capital Holdings and its Malaysian subsidiary Super Apps, and change the post-transaction corporate name to Bradbury Capital Inc. Investors also backed new Cayman constitutional documents, authorized the issuance of more than 20% of PubCo shares under Nasdaq rules, approved an equity incentive plan, and elected a new board led by Super Apps' representatives, with only 1,153 shares redeemed, paving the way for the business combination to proceed with broad shareholder support and a strengthened governance framework.

More about Technology & Telecommunication Acquisition

Technology & Telecommunication Acquisition Corporation is a special purpose acquisition company focused on combining with businesses in the digital payments and technology sectors. Through its planned merger structure, the company aims to create a new Cayman Islands-incorporated holding entity, eventually to be renamed Bradbury Capital Inc., to serve as the listed parent of Super Apps and related holdings.
